16. As to me, No. As to Motorola Inc., Yes. Motorola's Government Electronics Group (GEG) was the subject of a federal criminal investigation relating to certain government defense contracts. Motorola conducted its own internal review, voluntarily made some refunds and contract adjustments and negotiated a Plea Agreement and a Civil Settlement Agreement with the Government. Under the terms of those agreements, the Department of Justice filed a criminal information in the Federal District Court in Phoenix, Arizona on March 24, 1988, charging Motorola with three counts of making false statements to the Federal Government and Motorola pleaded guilty to those charges and paid $9.98 million in addition to prior refunds to the Government. The Government agreed not to prosecute Motorola on other programs that had been included in the investigation. The Plea Agreement has been approved by the Federal Court.

Motorola also entered into an Administrative Settlement Agreement with the Department of Defense. After Motorola demonstrated that it is a presently responsible government contractor, the Department of Defense agreed that Motorola should not be debarred or suspended from receiving new government business.

17. As to me, No. As to Motorola Inc., Yes. See answer to Question 16. In the answer to Question 16 we have detailed the single occasion of conviction. A corporation the size of Motorola Inc. is the subject of periodic investigation. Such is particularly true in the case of a corporation significantly engaged in United States Government contracts. We are not aware of any investigations for possible violations of criminal statutes other than in the United States Government contracting area. As to those in the United States Government contracting area, we have no notice of pending indictments.
